Dear Henry:-

I was so glad this morning to get your letter. I endorse every word in it, and am willing, as is also Sue, to carry out the suggestion you make. I trust it whether is agreeable to the management you express. If not, now, I hope she will see the wisdom, propriety and general comfort of it. So you can put me and mine down as agreeing cheerfully and heartily to the plan.

I am so glad of Bob's improvement. I attribute all the good that comes from his practically assured restored health to the generosity, loyalty and consummate kindness of Zam and Horry. It was heroic in every way.

I hope you can come down as Sue suggests. You would enjoy the change and I know you and

I would be benefited in a thousand ways. That 200 words can express. The theatres will be open and the social side will afford you an opportunity to meet the lovely, unoffended, plain, good women of Montgomery. You may think you won't enjoy it, but, if you will only come, I feel perfectly safe in insuring that you will be pleased. She owes me to ask her to come with that you will come.

Yours devotedly
