

June 8, 1899

My dear Sam

What a shame
it is that you cannot go on the trip I had decided that you were going from the way in which you wrote in the letter
before this last one.
I am crazy to come to Athens before I go but as you did not mention it in your last try & this letter I concluded that it was not convenient right now and did not make any preparation in other words have no

clothes that are fit to go to see any one in right now & have just been living for this trip North and in consequence have had nothing made but some short-tracks which are not suitable for all occasions you know. However I want to come some time this summer if you will have me when I can bring enough clothes to keep you from being ashamed of me. It is wonderful to think of you and you not going on this trip.

I wish you would change your mind at the last minute. We have to leave here on Tuesday to go to Birmingham. Could you have such a wish come on to Weymouth

that day to see me
You might get to just in that little while. You have treated me a sight any way by promising to come to see me and now sitting in your apartment
I can do but no more

them for I want to see you. Tell her that I am afraid she will get to look on me as some people I know do on the
some gang - as some
to come as the summer
- any way I wish I could come right
now. When let me

Love from you

Love

Love

Sunday morning