

Saturday Evening.

6/23-"28

My dear Harry;-

Your letter came some time ago, have not answered as it was not so important as to rush matters, I have been terribly busy this Winter and Spring, and it is a hard matter to write after a strenuous day, so I leave my letter writing to wait on leisure time. Had a little chat over the 'phone with William this evening, suppose you know Mamie has had German Measles, if this has not been written do not mention it, for she was not ill, but was terribly sorry that I could not go out to see her, for no one is immune from that kind, and it has been an epidemic this Spring, I had a friend that felt very bad for several days, and proved to be measles, so I have tried to stay out of the atmosphere, for more than likely if I had it, would have been sent to the hospital, so I have steered clear of it, but hate not to go to Mamie, she went out today, and seems much better.

I leave here the sixth of July, my ticket may read by Atlanta, if so will stop a day or two, and bring Baby Jen back with me, I hate to think of her being tied to such a hound for money, but what is the matter, he never had any in his youth, and now he is for grabbing all he can, I wrote Baby in regard to the money I had never collected from John's estate, and told her to let Herbert read it, for I wanted him to know what I had figured on in regard to the house, for Sara writes me in every letter just the condition it is in, and I told her that if my proposition was not acceded to, that I would collect the money, he may have a fit, but he had better not say anything to me for I will tell him just what I think in a decent way. I have every thing that John paid me down, and the note I thought off hand was $1600.00 it was 1750.00, I still have the note, I would not destroy it, so I could prove the truth of it, I sent the way I figured to you long ago, do not know whether it is in your possession or not, but I kept a copy of it, if you care to figure it out can see if I was correct, from 1914 to 1921.
