Dear Harry - Wednesday
If I can get a good price for my tract and the house I have decided to let it go if the others want to buy me out - Of course I hate to give up all claim in it but this is merely sentiment and I am not able to indulge in such a luxury. I was anxious to go up there one summer and take the children I wrote Jim & she a note and asked me what in the world I wanted to come up & cook for two children I hadn't mentioned cooking for them - they will never get into there neither will Sarah as she has never had an invitation I did think Sarah might have smoothed over the letter she wrote Sarah asking her not to come up there - but she has never given her even a hint of an invitation.

Sarah would be as mad as "Fucker" if she knew I had written this. so just consider it not said. What do you think would be a fair price for it.

For a while down here houses were awfully cheap and the tax is very low on a house under $5000. in the winter season you can rent out for five or six hundred dollars a season - I heard of a house yesterday that rented for $700 + one for $1000 of course you have to move out in a cheaper house, some families just have a garage apt in the back and live in it till the season is over. I wrote

You are still enjoying your work in imagining it is rather paligining.

We were unhappy about the stormy but it passed us by. Let me hear from you about the house.

Yours of 7-

Harry's employee has just about given up his auto. business - he has taken charge of the new Yacht Club House - stays there nearly all the time of course.
Harry can't take all the responsibility trading cars one day he said he didn't see him all day - think he handles the drinks so you know where he will land
