Mr. R. H. Walker,

My Dear Mr. Walker:--

I have your kind letter of the 24th, and in reply beg to say that it has been a pleasure to us to have your son, William, in our home. It might be some satisfaction to you to know that he is not a boy who is always running around. He spends most of his leisure hours at home; seems to enjoy being with my two boys, and I am sure that they both enjoy his company very much. We find him very courteous and appreciative.

With best wishes for a happy

New Year, I am,

Yours very truly,

I have just received your letter of the 21st, and in reply beg to say that it has been sent to me to have your son, William, in our school. I think he would be very well adapted to know that he is not a boy who is always running around. He is most of his leisure hours at home; seems to enjoy being with my two boys, and we find him very much interested in their studies. We find him very much interested in their studies.
